

The non-food division of FoodSource Plus was developed in 2012 by aligning us with a variety of supply and service companies that we have vetted, negotiated and contracted for FoodSource Plus's human service customer base. Dubbed SupplySource, this company is designed to save human service agencies money on office supplies, janitorial products, linens, signage, maintenance services, transportation, plumbing and landscaping to name a few. Chances are, if an agency has a need for any supply or service; SupplySource has got it covered – at an estimated savings of at least 10% under market cost.

In 1998, Michael Foley, a Sysco Representative, sought to develop a solution for the human service sector, particularly child cares, that were being neglected and overcharged by the food service industry. He left Sysco and started FoodSource Plus. By garnering a few regional, independent food distributors in the Northeast to join his network by agreeing to longer credit terms, smaller drop shipments and guaranteed pricing with lower margins, he was able to attract human service agencies to join FoodSource Plus and experience the savings and improved customer service he had negotiated on their behalf. Since founding FoodSource Plus, the free program evolved into the preeminent solution for human service agencies for their food and supply purchases. We are now endorsed by more than 25 state and national nonprofit membership associations, have thousands of customers nationwide, and include national distribution (including Sysco) in our network of vendors. Our staff has 100+ combined years of food service experience that we parlay into helping our customers save money, improve efficiencies and develop a more proficient purchasing platform.

Due to increased nutritional awareness and a push for healthier eating on a national level thanks to Partnership for a Healthier America (PHA) and other similar initiatives, FoodSource Plus procured and developed software called NutriSource. NutriSource enhances the FoodSource customer experience by allowing our staff to provide our customers nutrition analyses, custom menus and nutritious product/menu alternatives, production schedules, cost summary reports, HACCP instructions and recipe books, access to an extensive database of menus, and review of all existing or new menus by our staff Registered Dietitian. As with the core FoodSource Plus savings service, NutriSource reports and services are free for any customer purchasing through our network. NutriSource services are an invaluable asset to all customers, particularly those required to report nutrition data to a regulatory authority such as CACFP, as well as any organization seeking to improve their menus. We are the YMCA of the USA's partner in their commitment to First Lady, Michelle Obama's Partnership for a Healthier America, and we are developing our own commitment to PHA which will include nutritional analyses to any child care agency that wants one.
